

CSF Project 2009/2010

Establishing Linguistic needs of English-speaking people affected by cancer in France

A professionally designed and managed survey to help CSF establish the language help needs of English-speaking cancer patients in France is now available on line. Former cancer patients, current patients and their families are all invited to contribute to this unique and very valuable piece of research.

The survey consists of a short set of questions and will not take long to complete. The results will help Cancer Support France develop better services for English-speaking patients with cancer. This may include, in the first place, translations of documents currently only available in French that can help patients get more out of the French health service as they embark on treatment.

It is stressed that the complete process, including your input to the questionnaire is confidential. You are not required you to give your name. However, if you wish to provide your contact details for possible follow up, there is space at the end of the questionnaire to do so.

The survey will be open until the end of February. You can access the survey here:

<http://www.surveygizmo.com/s/196811/csf-survey>

If you have any queries about the survey, please contact csf-survey@sainte-foy.org

Thank you in advance for your participation.

Linda Shepherd.

President CSF-National